1964 Graduates Enjoy Prom

Over 250 parents and guests of the Coleman Graduating Class attended the annual Prom Banquet in the Elks hall on Friday evening last.

Chairman for the affair was Joe Aiello, who, after calling on Father Denis Fleming to say Grace, asked Steve Truch to propose the toast to the Queen. Miss Judy Roughhead proposed a toast to the Teaching Staff, which was responded to by Principal Horace Allen.

Toast to the School Board of Trustees was proposed by Miss Joan Mraz, and responded to by Board Chairman John Salus, after which Trevor A. Collister responded to his son Denis' toast to the Parents.

Class Valedictorian, Miss Fay Radley, was then introduced and gave a well-prepared talk, after which Rev. Fleming proposed a toast to the Graduating Class.

In making his toast Father Fleming gave an inspiring address to the young people. Miss Ralphina Deluca responded, after which Miss Shirley Campbell expressed the school's thanks to the Royal Purple for having prepared the fine programme for the graduation prom.

The entire party then retired to the Horace Allen school auditorium where an excellent program was held under the chairmanship of Colin Collister. Three choir solos, Carmela, La Paloma and Lady of Spain were presented by the grade 10 and 11 choir directed by Mrs. Alma Roughhead, after which Kenneth Murdoch, talented pianist, played a solo. Miss Jo Ann Misura then entertained with a dance "Dance of the Castanets", which was followed by two numbers presented by the two numbers presented by the school orchestra.

School Principal Horace Allen was called upon and presented the curling award to the Stan Wood rink, after which Judi Coover and Howard Ash very ably introduced each graduate.

Following the assembling of the students on the stage, Mrs. Helen Neddio of the Home and School Association gave each of the grads their school pins.

The auditorium was then cleared of chairs and the large attendance witnessed a very intricate Grand March of the students arranged and directed by Miss Kyoko Urano.

During the program, Miss Urano, Miss Wyoma Hatchard, Mrs. B. Bond and Mrs. J. Holyk, on the teaching staff, were called upon and were presented with bouquets of flowers in appreciation of the work they have done in helping the students with their graduation prom and other school activities.

The students and their guests then enjoyed an evening of dancing in the school auditorium which was gaily decorated in a Spanish motif for this year's graduation party.

To Give Paper At Moscow

Wilfred Hoyt of Ottawa, Ont., formerly of Coleman, has been invited to give a paper to a Russian science commission and will leave for Moscow this month.

Mrs. Hoyt, the former Margaret Allan of Coleman, will join her husband in Vienna, and they will return home via Zurich, Rome, Amsterdam and Paris.

Their two daughters, Dinah and Robin, will remain in Ottawa with their grandfather, James Allan, also a former old-time resident of Coleman, who makes his home now with the Hoyles.

Mr. Hoyt took his schooling here and his degree in physics at the University of Alberta and McGill University.

He is now employed with the National Research Council in Ottawa, where he and his family reside.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

Happy Birthday, Canada!

Canadians often give the impression of being a pain-wracked, problem-ridden people, devoted to planning things down to the last painful detail.

In 1967 they will be 100 years old . . . and already the birthday plans appear to be forged in anguish and argument, enmeshed with problems of bi-lingualism and multi-culturalism. The word-smiths and intellectuals have tormented the subjects in seminars, panels, discussion groups and dialogues, until it has almost bogged down.

And then came some light!

A blunt, outspoken business man, Oakah Jones, president of The Consumers Gas Company, was invited to speak on Canada's birthday day year to the Ontario Association of Architects. I have just read a copy of his speech, and I feel like shouting yippee.

He called for a little less rigid planning and a bit more spontaneous response, some enthusiasm and lots of gaiety. He suggested we aim for a party that will bring happy recollections that will go on for years afterwards. Let's not fight about what kind of government help we are going to get for this project or that one — let the people put on a party of their own; a celebration. And it ought to be a colorful one, because we've so many racial backgrounds, so many ethnic groups, that have retained their traditions along with their Canadianism.

It starts to sound like fun. It begins to become the kind of party that will bring Americans and Europeans flocking into Canada in 1967 to celebrate with us a real party — not a tear-stained debate about our various problems. And they'll go home saying, "What a whale of a wonderful party!"

So let's all catch the spirit. Let's tell the world we're going to live it up a little in 1967, and they're welcome to join us in the fun. We have a few problems, true; but we've plenty to be gay about as well.

ALBERT SCHWEITZER

(Exchange)

Two generations have now come of age with the name of Albert Schweitzer listed among their heroes.

With all of its upssets, its wars, its depressions and disorders the twentieth century to date has given its full quota of great men.

In any company selected to represent the brighter side of the developments of our times the name of Schweitzer must be included.

His record is so well known that it seems almost childish to repeat it. Say only that few people indeed ever qualified for one Ph.D. degree.

Schweitzer has qualified for four and in widely differing fields — in music, in philosophy, in theology and in medicine. In all of these fields he has made a mark for others to aim at.

However, he deliberately chose after he was forty years of age, to go to French West Africa to Lamerbere in the territory of Gabon and found a hospital, a missionary headquarters, and a great humanitarian effort.

He was born in Alsace-Lorraine at a time when that unhappy area was German. All his life he has felt the full horror of power politics. His early work in Africa was interrupted briefly by World War One, but has grown progressively to the present time. No name associated with Africa is better known for better reasons than that of Albert Schweitzer.

Now that he has marked his 80th birthday we find ourselves wondering if he will live to see a century. Well he might, for he is still wonderfully active. If he does, what other man will have made so much of an impact on an entire century of time?

KEEP THIS DATE IN MIND

Time to Shake Out that Ol'
Welcome Mat!

Yes, our good friends the tourists will soon be here once more, about all they've heard about Western hospitality. Last year these nice people spent over $115,000,000 with us. So let's do all we can to give them value for their holiday money. First, let's get ready to entertain company. Take a look around your community and see what you can do to make it look like a place where Alberta's visitors want to stay. Paint up—clean up—spruce up. Make sure local directional signs pointing to places of interest are in good repair and easy to read.

Then, when we're best, let's see what we ourselves can do for our guests. Let's be courteous, helpful and friendly.

Be Courteous

Give a smile with your service. Courtesy costs nothing, but its price is above rubies. Let our visitors remember Alberta as the Province with the good manners.

Be Helpful

Do all you can to help strangers find their way around. Give them as much useful information as you can. Help them to know and like your Province.

Be Friendly

It's nice to get acquainted. Talk to tourists in campgrounds and recreational areas, tell them about your community's activities and attractions. Let them know you're pleased to see them, and encourage them to prolong their stay.

Report From Parliament Hill

(Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P.)

It has often been said that more gossip and rumors circulate on Parliament Hill than in any ten small towns. Strangely enough — there always seems to be at least some basis in fact for most of these rumors.

One of the more interesting of these recent stories concerns the possibility of an election, provided a suitable issue could be found. The proposed Canada Pension plan seemed to be good election material if only it were opposed by at least a substantial number of the Opposition. All Opposition parties, however, have made it quite clear that they would like to suggest improvements to the government's present proposal.

This has removed any possibility of an election being fought on this issue, and the government has no other contentious legislation before Parliament. The former Progressive Conservative government made a study of the U. S. and other pension plans in different countries of the world with the view of bringing a pension plan before Parliament with portability and with survivor benefit provisions, but this could not be done without the full consent of all the provinces—Quebec refused.

The latest government move with respect to the Canada Pension plan is to delay the presentation of its plan to Parliament (at least temporarily) until further consideration can be given to Mr. Lesage's pension plan for Quebec.

As everyone knows, Quebec has refused to take part in the Canada Pension plan and this automatically removes about one-third of the population of Canada to start with. In addition, Premier Robarts of Ontario, has indicated that he will not make a final decision on joining any proposed federal pension plan until he sees the plan in its final form after a parliamentary committee has made numerous changes, alterations and additions.

After the recent Federal - Provincial Conference it appeared to be quite clear that Premier Lesage of Quebec had worked out probably the best and most all-inclusive pension plan of anyone. As a result, the government has temporarily withdrawn its pension plan from consideration by Parliament in order to further examine the Quebec plan.

If the government is successful in persuading Quebec to take part in a national pension plan, this in itself would be a very excellent thing as we could then have a truly national plan. What is more, the Quebec plan seems to be a better one than proposed federal plan.

One could only wonder why the government during the past year, did not carry on closer consultations with Quebec, Ontario and the other provinces in order to work out a mutually satisfactory plan months ago and thus avoid all the current confusion and delays. Now it would seem that the virtues of co-operation and compromise have been recognized in Ottawa and that some sort of national plan may at last materialize.

The federal government has never been in any position to dictate to the provinces concerning an effective national pension plan. Under our constitution all social benefit and welfare measures are strictly provincial matters and only by agreement the provinces can this federal government take over this field of legislation.

In 1952 an amendment to the Canadian constitution was made (and consented to by all provinces) — which enable the Old Age Pension scheme to come into existence, and be administered by the federal government. Unfortunately, this amendment to the constitution was not sufficiently broad to enable the federal government to bring in many of the things necessary for the type of pension plan that we are considering today.

In this regard "survivor benefits" can not be included in any federal pension plan without the consent of the provinces.

Since this is clearly a most important item of any effective national pension plan, agreement by the provinces is essential.

Brakes Vital To Car Safety

"As with many vital parts of an automobile the condition of the brakes is all too often taken for granted by the average driver until suddenly they fail," said S. E. Swallow, of the vehicle safety committee, Canadian Highway Safety Council. Mr. Swallow, director of service for the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd, urged every motorist to have his car's brakes tested and, if necessary, repaired, particularly during the Council's annual car-check campaign running through April and May.

"Only someone who has experienced brake failure in traffic can fully realize the great part they play in traffic safety," said Mr. Swallow. He stressed the need for regular car-checks, but emphasized the stronger need in spring when most vehicles had come on through a car-freezing winter season. Besides checking the car, he added, "check up on your driving. Everyone can stand a little of that at any time."

N. E. S. News

Q—is benefit payable during pregnancy?

A—Benefit may be paid during the earlier weeks of pregnancy provided the claimant is able, ready and willing to take work immediately and has not left her employment voluntarily because of pregnancy. Benefit is not ordinarily paid during the later weeks of pregnancy or during the time immediately following the birth of a child.

Q—How much is my benefit?

A—The amount of your weekly benefit is based on the average rate of contributions you made in the last 30 weeks falling within the 104 weeks immediately before you made your claim.

Q—How long is benefit paid to me?

A—You may receive one week benefit for every two contribution weeks made during the last two years unless you had a previous benefit period within that time in which case only the contribution weeks made since the previous benefit period began, or in the last 52 weeks, whichever is the longer time, will count. The minimum is 12 weeks of full benefit and the maximum is 51 weeks.

Q—Who may be claimed as dependents?

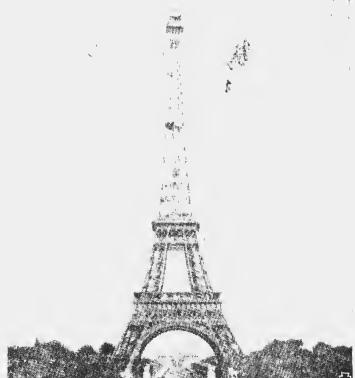

A—The following persons may be claimed as dependents: your wife, husband or child; or any of your blood relatives down to nephews and nieces; or relatives by marriage down to step-child or adopted child. To claim a person as a dependent you have to be wholly supporting or mainly supporting that person, and the dependent must live in Canada or in one of the United States of America with which Canada has a reciprocal agreement.

Paris Welcome Symbol Is 75 Years Old

The Eiffel Tower, the sign and welcome symbol of Paris turns 75 this year. Designed by Alexandre Gustave Eiffel, the tower stands on the site of the International Exposition of 1889 which commemorated the centenary of the French Revolution.

Constructed by 300 Frenchmen, the tower is 984 feet tall and weighs 151,320 pounds. It was completed on March 31, 1889 and its cost was 5,600,000 gold francs. For 50 years it was the world's tallest structure. Throughout its 75 years, the Eiffel Tower has kept friendly contact with the world. Since its opening in 1889, according to Air France, the Eiffel Tower has seen a parade of events which have included two World Wars and great advances in science.

Today's visitors to Paris and the Eiffel Tower can enjoy the best of two worlds. Air France, the world's largest airline, underscores the fact that the City of Light is only hours from North America by plane. Also that vacation hotels within sight of the Eiffel Tower offer true French atmosphere and comfort for about five dollars a day. Neighborhood restaurants serve meals for not more than three dollars.

In its 75th year, the Eiffel Tower remains a beacon of friendship and the Parisians, themselves, the city's greatest asset.

Highways Minister To Speak At Awards Banquet

Hon. Gordon Taylor, Minister of Highways, will be the guest speaker at the Provincial Teen-age Safe Driving Championship Award Banquet in Grande Prairie on Saturday May 23rd.

Other special guests will include police and safety representatives, along with MLA's and MP's from Grande Prairie and Peace River areas.

More than 30 contestants, all winners of local Road-o'-O's will be competing for provincial honors and the right to represent Alberta at the National Championships scheduled for Toronto in mid-July. Teen-age safe driving road-o'-o's across Canada provided written and practical tests of driver ability for about 25,000 young drivers this year.

The provincial championships are sponsored by Imperial Oil Ltd. Local road-o'-o's are sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The safety division of the Alberta Government Highways Department sponsors the local competitions in communities without a Junior Chamber of Commerce organization.

In addition to the Imperial trophy the provincial champion receives $100 with the two runners-up receiving $75 and $50 respectively. Prizes for the national winners include trophies and scholarships posted by the All Canada Insurance Federation.

How Much Inflation?

Everybody is deeply affected, though in different ways, by a general upward surge in price levels and a general cheapening of money, says The Financial Post in a leading editorial.

So far, there has been relatively little change in consumer prices in Canada. The changes we have had are generally less extensive than the changes abroad. But the over-all picture suggests that once again everybody needs to examine now and closely his readiness to meet successfully a new price climate.

For the first time in years commodity prices in world markets have been jumping ahead.

Prices of the vast torrent of goods we import into Canada have been rising more rapidly than in previous boom cycles. Wholesale prices in Canada are rising strongly. Wages here are rising much more sharply than output per man-hour.

The general outlook for the area covered by the Imperial local office appears good, according to Mr. Robertson, manager, of the National Employment Service.

The merchants and residents of the area are viewing plans for future industrial expansion with optimism. Highway improvements and greater demands for our natural exports in the form of coal, gas and lumber have given the area a real boost. Building contractors are reporting an increase in the demand for alterations and additions to existing buildings.

Local motel and hotel owners are anticipating a 100 per cent increase in the tourist trade this year. The addition of a new tenting park to the area will provide every convenience for travellers who enjoy the outdoors.

Heavy rain and snow have deferred farm, lumber and construction operations by several weeks.

Seasonal road conditions have had a detrimental effect in some areas and continued adverse weather could cause additional delay to workers on seasonal lay-offs.

There is a supply of experienced farm workers, but there has been no demand. It is expected a shortage will exist when the weather has improved.

Construction workers are in plentiful supply although many will be returning to former employers in the near future.

In the female division, a number of women are available for immediate employment. Many applicants in this group are experienced workers who are seeking full or part-time work during the tourist season.

Mr. Robertson said an analysis of the unemployed in the area indicated approximately 40 per cent more people were employed in the area than for the same period in 1963.

The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

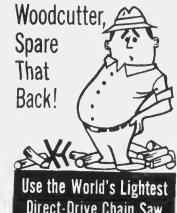

Dear Mr. Holstead:
Just a short note with the money order for $2.00 for the paper. I am somewhat late. But I must have the paper as one would say it is like a letter from home. So many changes and so many familiar faces gone since we have left these 10 years.

I hope both you and Mrs. Holstead are keeping well. Ernest just now is in Edmonton getting fitted for a new leg, one of the new kind suction by hydraulic or something, so hope it will be better than the old type.

All my families are well and like myself look forward in seeing The Journal coming. It is passed to one and then the other. Sorry I am late.

Yours truly,

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy.
